

Canadian Institute of Resources Law
Institut canadien du droit des ressources

GRADUATE RESEARCH ASSISTANT

The Canadian Institute of Resources Law (CIRL) created by the Faculty of Law in 1979, is a leading research centre in Canada on energy and environmental law and policy issues. CIRL is accepting applications for a Graduate Student Research Assistant. LLM students in the area of energy or environmental law currently enrolled in the LLM program or students that will graduate in June 2021 are eligible to apply. Candidates must have a genuine interest in energy and environmental law and excellent research and writing skills.

A cover letter addressed to Allan Ingelson, Executive Director, Canadian Institute of Resources Law & Professor, Faculty of Law
Canadian Institute of Resources Law
Room 3353, MFH, Faculty of Law
University of Calgary
Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4

Your CV and the names of three referees can be emailed to allan.ingelson@ucalgary.ca at any time before April 25, 2021.